Foreword

In the words of Thomas Paine -"These are the times that try men's souls." It is the belief of the students, faculty, and constituency of Bethel College that Christian education is more vital and necessary than ever in these difficult and hazardous war times. Well-trained Christian men and women will be needed badly in the future. With this in mind the editors of this yearbook have attempted to portray the Bethel College family in the school year of 1942-43. We have attempted within the covers of this book to give a clear picture of a year spent here—a monumental year in our lives. Also, the limitations of memory being what they are, it is felt that familiar scenes and familiar faces should be recorded for later years. It is hoped that this issue of the Graymaroon will furnish an interesting and informative portrayal of the year now, as well as a record for future reference of the work and play of this school year in war time.

THE EDITORS.

In deepest appreciation of one who has given the largest part of his life in order that Bethel College may become the school which we know and love, we dedicate the 1943 Graymaroon to Dr. P. J. Wedel.

Dedication

Dr. Wedel has served the college for more than forty years, as professor of chemistry, registrar, and, at present, as executive alumni secretary.

WE THE PEOPLE

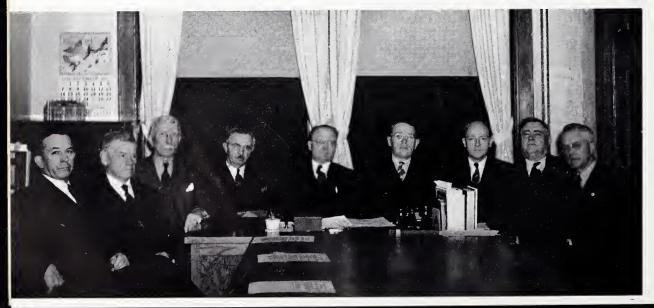

President Edmund G. Kaufman

Dr. Kaufman has given his undivided loyalty to the interests which would best promote the growth of Bethel College. He has worked hard to create cooperation between the college and the constituency and to improve the institution.

His wealth of knowledge and understanding have been a great asset to him in his work. He received his education at Bethel College, University of Kansas, Witmarsum Theological Seminary, Garrett Biblical Institute, University of Chicago, and Columbia University. His career has been varied — preaching, missionary work, writing, lecturing, teaching, and administrating.

Horsch.

Dean of the College

As we enter school, we think of Dr. Goertz first as the person who signs his P. S. G. on our enrollment cards, or as the person whom we must interview if we trespass any of the laws of the school. We have learned to appreciate Dr. Goertz as our friend and counselor. His advice comes to us as a result of much hard work and fruitful experience.

Dean of Men

Dignified?—yes, but Dr. Kauffman deserves a hand for the many things which he has done to promote the best interests among the students of Bethel College. He is an understanding counselor and superior instructor whom we all enjoy.

Dean of Women

Miss Linscheid came to us this year from the faculty of the University of Colorado. We do not know her quite as well as some of the other faculty members, but we do know that she will lend a sympathetic ear to each one of us. She has willingly given of her time for the welfare of the students.

Bible

The division of Bible and Christian Education is one of the five main divisions of the curriculum at Bethel College. Six members of the faculty serve as the teachers of the courses offered in this division. Thirty-five different courses are listed in our catalogue. These courses are distributed in several fields. The larger number are Bible courses, covering the study of the Old and New Testament. There are courses offered in church history, including two courses that are specially devoted to the study of Mennonite history. Then also Christian Education is given a place. These courses aim to emphasize the importance of the teaching work of the church and give the students acquaintance with approved methods. The history of missions, which follows the spread and expansion of Christianity, is also represented in the work offered. Several courses in theology and philosophy are included in the list.

The general aims of the division are four in number. The first and primary aim is to give the students an acquaintance with and an understanding of the Bible as the Word of God. God has revealed himself and his purposes for man in the pages of Scripture. An appreciation of that fact is primary. Then also it is an aim of the division to inspire young people to prepare themselves for Christian service. In order that their training may be more helpful provision has been made for practical experience in Christian service. There are a number of ministerial students who fill preaching appointments regularly. It is also the aim of all who share in the work of this division to maintain high standards of scholarship. The best training is needed for times such as these.

Natural Sciences

A well balanced program of Christian liberal arts education takes into account the educational influence of man's natural environment, which, by design, is his temporary home. Hence the Natural Science Division.

Chemistry, or "What things are made of"; Physics, or "How things work"; Biology, the science of living things; and Mathematics, a mental discipline and the language of science; are the four fundamental sciences. Cultural courses and an undergraduate major are offered in each of these. In addition the following are offered: a brief cultural course in Geology; dealing with the structure, dynamics, and history of the earth's crust; and a brief cultural course in Astronomy, dealing with the nature, motion, and distribution of the heavenly bodies.

Each science is the core of accumulated knowledge about some phase of nature. It is more than that. It is a record of efforts, often heroic, to make nature yield her secrets and thus lead to a progressive understanding of a great design. It is a record of success in the application of the scientific method. It is knowledge plus a discipline.

An education excluding an appreciation of nature and the disciplinary effect of science must necessarily be limited. It limits one's understanding of, and participation in, man's peace-time activities, which are progressively more and more, and for increasingly more people, tied up with applications of scientific principles; it limits one's understanding of man himself, who by divine will is a part of nature; it limits one's appreciation of beauty and truth as expressed in nature and science, and hence of art and literature; it limits one's sense of values, hence one's good judgment and philosophy; it limits one's concept of, and reverence for, GOD, the author of nature.

The general aims of this Division are:

- 1. To stimulate a love for nature and a healthy growth in understanding of natural phenomena.
- 2. To learn to appreciate the contributions of natural science to a well balanced education and to modern civilization and thought.
- 3. To master such fundamental principles and techniques of natural science as are essential for intelligent and creative living and for success in a chosen career.

Humanities

The general aims and objectives of the Division of Humanities are two-fold:

1. To achieve a mastery of the essentials of correct English and other languages.

2. To develop an appreciation of all that is true and beautiful.

In order to achieve these ends the work is divided into four departments with a total of 191 courses.

The Department of Languages and Literatures is eager to assist the students in acquiring the essentials in languages so as to give them the joy of getting and communicating thought, in opening unto them the vast cultural achievements of our own and other nations' past, and enabling them to transmit adequately to future generations the ideas and ideals of our own day.

The Departments of Music and Art aim to cultivate appreciation and love for the good and the beautiful and develop in the students the means of self-expression; emotional release, and creative activity with the purpose of enriching the home, the school, and the church.

The Department of Philosophy strives to train students in reflective thinking; they are led to acquaint themselves with the various systems of philosophical interpretation so that they may choose more intelligently the way of Christ and apply it in their service for humanity.

The division of Humanities thus endeavors to assist young people in their preparation for fruitful living and effective service, whether it be as a farmer, a school teacher, a minister, or any other profession.

Social Sciences

The Division of the Social Sciences includes those studies specifically related to man and his activities. These studies are grouped under five departments: Economics, Education, History and Government, Sociology and Psychology.

Economics deals with the production, distribution and consumption of wealth; with the basic problems of earning a living. The department of Education seeks to prepare elementary and high school teachers for our public school system through an inculcation of the philosophy, principles and methods of transmitting culture and creating character. History is the record of man's activities in their time and place relationships, while the related field of Government treats the political systems under which man lives and by which he hopes to maintain the rights of the individual and the integration and welfare of society. Sociology seeks to abstract from historical and contemporary data the principles that characterize group living, while Psychology focuses on the individual organism in its relationship and adjustment to the external world

The general aims and objectives of this division are:

- 1. To stimulate effective personal and group adjustments to the economic, social, and political relationships of the day in the light of the Christian philosophy of life.
- 2. To develop skill in the use of the scientific method as applied to the social sciences.
- 3. To prepare students for graduate work in their chosen fields.
- 4. To train and inspire students for Christian service to mankind, individually and collectively.

The Social Sciences are intimately related to the interests of a Christian liberal arts college in that their point of reference is life rather than the making of a living. They are concerned not so much with things as with man himself. In times of social confusion the adjunct, "Know Thyself," which Socrates made the basis of all other knowledge, appeals with particular urgency—for with all his knowing man seems to know least about himself. It is the opportunity of the Social Sciences to push back the horizons of man's social vision, of his inherent dignity, and of the basic truth that "No man lives unto himself alone."

Applied Arts and Sciences

Any education which begins and ends in the armchair, which does not end in effective action, is no education at all. To learn to teach without ever contacting children, to plan blueprints for houses which are never to be, to dream of the "home beautiful" if such dreams are never to be realized, is worse than wasted time. It cripples the personality of the dreamer and leaves him socially helpless, ineffective, and dependent.

The world today—and surely tomorrow—needs not only well trained brains, but bodies and skills capable of dealing effectively with the temporal problems of man. The business of this world demands action, not only dreaming, and the Applied Arts begin where the dreamer leaves off.

Therefore, this division seeks to develop interest in, and offer first-hand knowledge of an experience in the affairs, conditions, and work of the practical world. It seeks to develop the organic systems of the body to the end that each individual may live at the highest possible level. It seeks to develop love for orderly and systematic procedure in the performance of any task. It seeks to develop skills in activity, in favorable attitudes during play and the arts that will carry over and function during leisure time. It seeks, finally, to emphasize the dignity of labor and teach respect for the worker.

Student Council

Student government is recognized and respected at Bethel. To discover student preferences in activities, and, so far as possible, to abide by those preferences is the purpose of the Student Council.

It would be impossible to list so briefly all the activities of this busiest of organizations. Paul Becker presided over the Council; Dallas Voran served as Vice-President; Anna Fern Regier, as Secretary; and Harvey Goering, as Treasurer. Under their leadership the Council has assisted in nearly every activity on the campus.

The Student Council made plans for all the all-school parties held including the annual fall mixer, the Hallowe'en party, and the folk-game social for the Board of Directors, students and faculty. They sponsored the all-school Christmas banquet, the all campus clean-up days, merchant-student cooperation in the Town Hall Series, and also supervised Homecoming plans including the Queen election and the banquet. They were in charge of the selection of furniture for the Student Union room, and were responsible for the Farcity Review.

Last to be mentioned, but certainly not least in importance, the Student Council sponsored the publication of the Bethel Collegian and the Graymaroon.

Student Christian Movement

Departing this year from their traditional thirty-minute-a-week programs, the Student Christian Movement, under the leadership of Paul Goering, embarked on a new series of Sunday night meetings. The Wednesday morning services are still held, but are generally devotional periods. On Sunday night, large groups of students meet in the student union room for such varied discussions and lecture subjects as "What Is God?", "The Christian Concept of Prayer," and "The Student Work Program at Bethel." Students, faculty members, and outside speakers present their views which are then discussed.

The SCM does not confine its work to Wednesdays and Sundays. A reception is given as one of the first events of each school year. A Big-Little Sister and Big-Little Brother program is sponsored with older students acting as brothers and sisters to new students. The SCM project of Christian gifts to under-privileged children in Newton marks another high point in events. Last, but not least, the extremely worthwhile Religious Emphasis Week is observed.

Regular meetings of the SCM cabinet are held when the members discuss problems and make tentative plans for future programs. "On the Serious Side" in the weekly Collegian is another SCM feature. Other officers include Esther Ruth Schroeder, Vice-President; Maxlyn Smith, Secretary; and Elmer Buhler, Treasurer.

New officers elected for the coming year are Paul Albrecht, President; Marjorie Enz, Vice-President; Orletta Warkentin, Secretary; and Paul Goering, Treasurer.

Student Volunteers

"To promote the spiritual welfare of its members by mutual fellowship and to assist in all ways possible in exemplifying and in spreading the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

"To promote missionary interest and education on the local campus and in the community.

That is the purpose of the Student Volunteer Group as expressed in their constitution. Forty college students, sincerely interested in Christian service as a life work, gather once each week for discussion programs and Bible study. The meetings and the organization itself bear special missionary emphasis, for these are the young Christian missionaries who will go out to serve in the uttermost parts of the world.

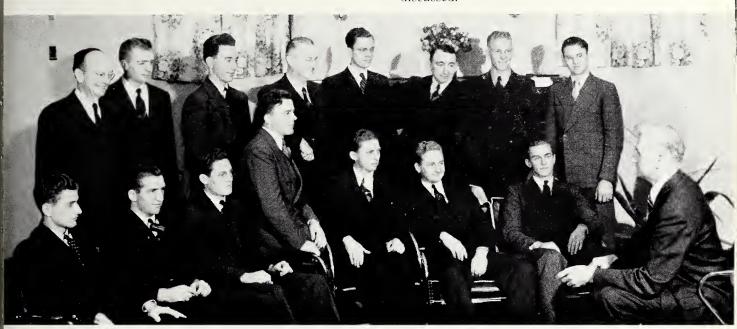

The programs are largely student programs, but frequently outside speakers, particularly missionaries, present discussions. Each meeting opens with a devotional period consisting of scripture reading and a prayer service. Special emphasis is placed on deputation service and visiting other churches.

Able officers of the organization are Esther Ruth Schroeder, President; Verney Unruh, Vice-President; and Helen W. Penner, Secretary.

Ministerial Students

Fourteen men students at Bethel College have announced their intentions of entering the ministry and all of them are members of the Ministerial Association. Several of these student pastors have regular charges, and all of them serve when called upon to do so.

The Ministerial Students meet once every week for a two-hour period. The first hour is spent in discussion of various problems of the churches which they serve; problems that they may all meet as ministers. Questions on budget, support, missionaries, and church school teachers are brought up and discussed.

The other hour is spent quite differently. Each member regularly presents a sermon and the other students criticize it, constructively or destructively as the occasion demands. Delivery, content, clarity of thought, organization, and interpretation are examples of points considered. The good received from such a plan is obvious, and the ministers Bethel turns out bear testimony of its value.

Bethel excels in the field of Christian education. Ministers who go out are well informed and well trained, and the vast majority of lay students too, have learned to reverence and respect the Gospel. and teach it, though it may never be from a pulpit.

The men's and women's governing councils are to act as mediators between the student body and the administration. The work is partly disciplinary, but mostly to promote understanding between the two.

Plans had been considered for several years for a men's council and last year a trial council was organized. This year's first official council finished drawing up the constitution which was ratified by the men's student body. Hugh Hostetler was elected President to succeed Jack Sawatsky who entered medical school. Earl Bartel and Orlando Goering were elected to fill the vacancies left by Jack and Herb Stucky.

The women's governing council has been active for about five years. Representatives from each dormitory make up the council which is governed by a constitution, with bylaws setting up regulations for the girls. Martha Stucky serves as President; Louise Duerksen, as Vice-President; and Bertha Fern Regier, as Secretary-Treasurer.

Ex-members present problems along specific lines and the topics are then discussed by club members.

Meeting the first and third Thursdays of each month, the club was presided over by Florene Bachman. Elda Wiens served as Vice-President, and Francis Unruh as Secretary-Treasurer.

Many members of Miss Hill's classes meet regularly as the Home Economics Club. Varied programs have been presented dealing with etiquette and first aid. Projects worked on include posters and demonstrations, and perhaps most interesting of all, work has been started on an all-Mennonite cook book.

President of the organization is Ruth Ewert. Vice-President is Winifred Regier; Leona Koehn, Secretary; and Gertrude Hohmann, Treasurer.

The brawn of Bethel, and many of the brains, compose that group of "B" men, the Letter Club. All the members have earned their letters for displaying outstanding proficiency in their respective sports: football, basketball, track, or tennis.

One of the highlights of the year is the initiation of pledges early in the spring. Ominous threats, laugh-provoking tricks, and other initiation stunts are in order.

Their avowed purpose is to further the program of athletics at Bethel through support of the regular teams and the sponsoring of intra-mural programs of touch football, basketball, softball, and volley ball.

In the past the Letter Club has handled season ticket sales for basketball and football games, helped officiate at local track meets, and sponsored an annual sports dinner, the Buffalo Bar-B-Q. The latter will probably have to be dispensed with this year for the obvious reasons of transportation difficulties and the meat shortage.

Officers serving this year include Paul Albrecht, President; Earl Bartel, Vice-President; and Harvey Goering, Secretary-Treasurer. Twenty-five peppy Doxies support Bethel's teams in intercollegiate basketball and football. Organized primarily as a pep club, the Doxies have taken over other activities which do not overshadow, but rival their eloquence as cheerers. The promotion of school spirit is their primary objective.

In addition to being present at all football and basketball games and planning pep rallies before games, Doxies have engaged in such activities as ushering at school functions, hanging "Welcome" banners for Homecoming, selling refreshments at football and basketball games, selling tickets to banquets and plays, and serving as color guards of the Flag.

In their maroon and white uniforms they are familiar figures on the campus, reminding students of an out of town game or leading the entire assembly of fans in enthusiastic yelling.

A major event of the year was the lovely Christmas party given for the girls and their dates by Mrs. R. C. Kauffman, sponsor of the club.

Margaret Ebersole served as President of the club; Catherine Clegg, as Vice-President; Orletta Warkentin, as Secretary-Treasurer; and Ruth Adams as stunt captain.

Physics Journal

Physics Journal, consisting of five physics majors, meets once every two weeks. The project of the meetings has been the tracing of the history of physics from ancient times, through the Renaissance, the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries down to modern times. An outline of a plan to be followed was drawn up at the beginning of the year, and this has been adhered to closely. Other discussions include topics from current magazines. President of the club was Arthur Voth; Ernest Mueller served as Secretary.

Cheminar

Students of chemistry and anyone else interested in the subject are eligible for membership in Cheminar. The programs of the meetings are varied. Oftentimes members of the club present short discussions on topics of special interest to the group as a whole. Dr. Kreider presents a lecture two or three times a quarter. Such topics as "War Gases" and "Famous Men in Chemistry" are discussed. One of the most interesting events of the year occurs when the Cheminar takes a trip to Wichita and attends the meetings of the American Chemical Society. President of the club is Harvey Goering. Vice-President is Harlan Goering and Eunice Regier serves as Secretary-Treasurer.

International relations, past, present, and future, are the special interest and concern of the International Relations Club. This year a special series of programs was promoted on topics of relief work in such foreign countries as France, Russia, and China. Rufus Baehr was President; Paul Albrecht, Vice-President; Roy Henry, Secretary; and Wilmer Goering, Treasurer.

Alpha Psi Omega

Alpha Psi Omega meets every other week, with Johnnie Kliewer serving as President; Helen Krehbiel, as Vice-President; and Winifred Regier, as Secretary-Treasurre. In the regular meetings studies have included the history of dramatics, the art of make-up, and general information as to the type of work dramatics involves. The club is also sponsoring a successful costume drive.

Students must prove their ability to participate successfully in dramatic productions before they are eligible for membership. Specific requirements as to roles taken and time spent in play production are set up by the national council.

Pi Kappa Delta

"The art of persuasion, beautiful and just" is what Pi Kappa Delta means. Members are chosen on the basis of participation and achievement in inter-collegiate debates. For eight years this organization, the most important of the three leading honorary forensic organizations in the country, has flourished on the campus. Initiation ceremonies are held annually when new members are to be admitted. Dr. Gingerich, as debate coach, serves as faculty adviser. Pi Kappa Delta members receive membership keys and the society's Forensic journal and are invited to all Pi Kappa Delta tournaments.

Band

Music has become an outstanding feature on the Bethel College campus. One of the organizations that has helped to bring this about is the band.

At the beginning of the first quarter a call was sent out for all students owning a horn and willing to make good use of it. The response was rather weak but after several more calls approximately twenty students met and the band became a realization. Because interest was not too high and because the organization was not large enough, the band did not prepare for any public concert. Directed by Professor Samuel B. Luttrell, the organization concentrated its efforts in serving as a colorful and musical background at the football games. Arrayed in their maroon and gray uniforms and playing the familiar martial airs, they became an indispensable feature of the College games.

At the end of the football season the band prepared to play at the basketball games. However, during the second quarter Professor Luttrell resigned his position at Bethel to take another. As a ship without a captain the band struggled valiantly on, floundered, and sank. The need for such an organization to create pep at the athletic events was felt so keenly that agitation for a pep band was started within the student body. Through the efforts of Orville Voth and Wilfred Friesen a group of about twenty students got together for practice and the result was the Bethel College Pep Band. Working without a director, the band has done a commendable job in playing for pep rallies and for games.

In keeping this interest in a band alive and growing, Bethel students may realize their dream of one day possessing a large concert band of fine musicianship.

Choir

The strains of "Holy, Holy, Holy" herald the entrance of black-robed figures as they march up the aisle to their places in the choir loft. It is the Bethel College a cappella choir taking part in the Sunday morning worship services in the Bethel College Church. This is only one phase of service that is rendered by the choir during the year. Under the direction of Professor Walter H. Hohmann it has added a dignified musical background to chapel programs, conference gatherings, Bible Week activities, and to various banquets held on the campus.

Previous to this year the choir has given a large number of concerts in surrounding towns and communities. It has planned and taken extensive tours that have taken it north, south, east, and west. But because of present conditions caused by the rationing program, the choir has had to concentrate on programs that would permit it to stay close to the campus.

The choir, sponsored by the Treble Clef Club, a musical organization in Newton, gave its first major concert February 1 in Memorial Hall. This concert marked the first time that the complete equipment of the stage was used

The choir participated in the annual presentation of the "Messiah" given in Memorial Hall January 3. It also appeared in Hutchinson at the convention held by the Kansas Federated Music Clubs. Another performance of the choir was that of Du Bois "Seven Last Words." This is an annual rendition.

The choir has become an integral part of campus life. It not only is an inspiration to those who sing in it, but also to those who have the privilege of listening to it.

Messiah Chorus

In attempting to influence the religious and cultural life of surrounding communities and the lives of those residing on the campus, Bethel College has instituted various activities that may be participated in by anyone who wishes to take part. One of the more outstanding efforts of this type is the annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah."

The "Messiah" has been given for fifteen consecutive years, the first rendition being in 1928. It is usually given the Sunday before Christmas vacation but because of a change in vacation dates it was performed after the Christmas holidays on January 3, in Memorial Hall. This year marks the second time that the "Messiah" was sung in Memorial Hall. The Messiah Community Chorus is made

The Messiah Community Chorus is made up of individuals from the campus, Newton, and nearby communities who wish to sing in it. The Bethel College a cappella choir is also a part of the chorus. The chorus, being smaller than in former years, consisted of 125 voices. Accompanying the group was an orchestra, directed by Professor Samuel Luttrell, and Miss Violet Miller at the piano.

The soloists for the "Messiah" are artists that have had wide experience in solo work. Those secured for this year were Miss Charlotte Penner of Halstead, who sang the soprano solos, and Miss Christa Fisher of Wichita, who sang the alto solos. The bass and tenor solos were ably taken care of by Professor Bernard Regier, bass, Hutchinson Junior College, and Professor Charles L. Hinchee, tenor, who is teaching in the Arkansas City Junior College. The accompanying picture shows the Community Choir and Orchestra at rehearsal.

Dramatics

The house lights dim, late arrivals hurry to their seats, and backstage the actors and actresses tensely await the rising of the curtain upon the first production of Bethel's theatrical season. The play is "The Family Portrait" by Coffee and Joyce presented by an all-school cast of 29 members. The plot centers around the intimate life of the family of Jesus. It is a warm and moving story and its great success was measured by the attentive silence of the audience as they watched the theme unfold. This play, given February 11, was the first to be given in Memorial Hall.

Three major play productions are given at Bethel during the year. They are the all-school and the junior and senior plays. This year due to the circumstances the two classes combined to give a comedy, Moliere's "The Miser." However, the three major plays are not the only dramatic efforts at Bethel. Classes in dramatics are required to give several one-act plays given at one-act play nights.

The organization which acts as an incentive to ardent young thespians to do better work in plays is the Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics fraternity. Qualifications for this group are quite high, and so it is limited to those who have done outstanding work in the field of dramatics.

Because drama is definitely a part of one's cultural life and a liberal arts education, it has an important role to play in our college life here at Bethel. And with larger, newer, and more modern equipment, made possible by Memorial Hall, it is reasonable to expect better plays in the future.

Worship and Devotion

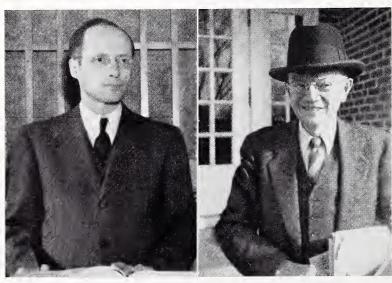

A Christian institution endeavors to present in a Christ-like manner the finer meanings of a religious life, and because Bethel is just such an institution, a great deal of stress is given to this endeavor. The greatest means by which it does so are the daily chapel meetings that are attended by the student body and faculty. It is here that we meet on common ground in a common fellowship. It is here that we leave refreshed and inspired by quiet meditations. As director of religious activities on the campus, Rev. A. E. Kreider has charge of these programs.

Because a need was felt whereby the students would have a chance to express themselves as to their inner desires and beliefs, weekly services are sponsored by the S. C. M. These meetings are held every Sunday evening. Here problems are discussed that affect the everyday life on the campus. Also such topics as relief and missionary activities are touched upon. To highlight these meetings, various speakers, such as Herbert King and Victor Sword, were obtained. For the past several years the S. C. M. has undertaken the sponsorship of a Religious Emphasis Week. This week is set aside primarily to reemphasize the teachings of Christ and as a reminder to each individual of his own personal responsibility to his Master. The meetings are held during the chapel hour and evenings for a period of one week. Rev. Reynold R. Weinbrenner was the speaker for this year.

The S. C. M. is not the only organization that influences the religious life on the campus. The Student Volunteer group also exerts a force through its weekly meetings and the prayer meetings that are held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday before the work and activity of the day is taken up. However, its influence goes out much farther than on the campus. Through its deputation work it reaches out into the various surrounding communities and churches and leaves its mark on the individuals contacted. Members pledge themselves to a life of Christian service, and by carrying out this pledge the group touches the lives of many.

In viewing the religious life on the campus we cannot overlook Bible Week. For one week meetings are held twice daily. Two outstanding speakers are secured. This year we were fortunate in having as speakers Rev. J. H. Janzen of Waterloo, Ontario, and Dr.

ANNA FERN REGIER AT THE ORGAN

M. C. Lehman, former relief worker in Europe. The meetings were held during the week of March 7 to 12.

There is yet another factor that influences the religious life here on the campus. It comes at a time when one needs to stop and forget the mad rush and scramble of the everyday world and again think quietly upon the more important things that are so easily forgotten in the harsh glare of day. It is the message of the chimes as they send forth their calm and melodious notes of reassurance of a mightier being.

An important phase of the religious life of the students is filled by the Bethel College Church. All students who have left their home church fellowship really appreciate the cordial welcome received in their new church group. Bethel College Church provides a system of associate memberships whereby students may become more closely affiliated with the local group without forfeiting their home church membership.

The worship services are held regularly every Sunday morning in the college chapel. The membership of the church fellowship is 437, which does not include associate members and other students who regularly attend. Rev. Lester Hostetler left his position on the faculty to become the pastor of the church this year. After filling the pulpit since the departure of Rev. Smucker at the opening of school in the fall, he was officially installed March 21. Besides the regular Sunday morning worship services held at 9:45 followed by Sunday School, various other meetings of general interest are held from time to time.

In the fall the church gave a reception for the students. The evening was spent in playing games, singing, getting acquainted, listening to short speeches, and, oh yes, refreshments.

The Bethel College Church does indeed fill an important and necessary place in the students' lives. The splendid worshipful Sunday services are a source of betterment and inspiration to all.

Religious life at Bethel cannot be measured or judged by the preceding paragraphs. It is more than the influence of an organization, speaker, or a strain of beautiful music; it is a feeling of goodwill and fellowship that has permeated all activities and phases of life on the campus.

The Graymarcon

Having successfully published the 1942 Graymaroon, the student council again voted to attempt a similar publication for the coming year. As a result the editor, assistant editor, business manager, and assistant business manager were appointed at the end of last year to make plans for this year's annual. The remaining individuals on the staff were in turn selected by the editor.

The staff, realizing the improbability of another annual until after the duration, worked long and hard in a special effort to make this Graymaroon a thing of lasting value. With Editor Albrecht holding the date of publication constantly before the eyes of his associates the day came at last when all copy, all advertising, all pictures, and final check-ups were in and ready for the press. In the meantime the staff waited hopefully and apprehensively until they were permitted to see the fruits of their labors.

Special thanks should be given to Carl Voth. Though he was not on the staff he contributed many of the unique photographic shots that are found in the book. Also recognition should go to Orville Voth. As well as being head of the candid section, he also spent long hours in taking and developing shots for other sections of the annual.

Serving as faculty adviser, Professor Lester Hostetler did much with timely advice and in bolstering up the courage of staff members when all seemed to be going in the wrong direction.

The Collegian

Acting as the chief organ of student opinion on the campus, the Bethel Collegian again found its way to the press once every week. This routine was strictly adhered to except for vacations, examinations, and various other times of crisis.

The Collegian is a special effort of the student council. It was efficiently run by Lois Woodworth, editor, and Dallas Voran, assistant editor, the last quarter of the 1941-42 year and the first and second quarters of the 1942-43 year.

As is the custom, the editor and his assistants for the coming year were selected by the student council during the second quarter. These appointed managing editors took over their respective posts at the beginning of the third quarter. They are Verney Unruh, editor, and Ellen Waltner, assistant editor.

In years past the Collegian was limited in its efforts because of its inadequate budget. This year a new policy was adopted and advertising was solicited from business firms in the city of Newton.

The Collegian does not only provide a means whereby the latest scandal on the campus may get into print, but it also permits those with journalistic ambitions to gain valuable experience in the actual publication of a newspaper.

Professor Hostetler serves as the faculty adviser.

Homecoming Queen

Anna Fern Regier, a Junior from Moundridge, reigned as the Queen at the Homecoming Festivities this year. Miss Regier is a member of the Student Council and is active in music and dramatics on the campus.

Homecoming

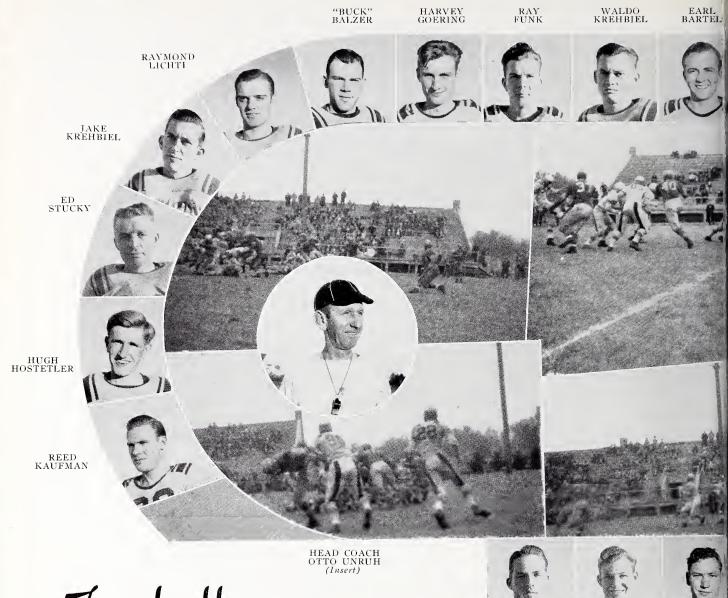

The festivities started out in true homecoming fashion the evening of November 6, with a torchlight parade to Kidron Park where special speakers and music by the pep band got everyone stirred up for the big game and the coming events of the next day. Comes the big day! With no parade (because of shortages and rationing) but with colorful bands from Walton, Goessel, and Newton, the scene shifted to the stadium at Athletic Park where the big Wheat Bowl classic between the Bethel Graymaroons and the Bethany Swedes took place. An outstanding spectacle of the festivities was the entrance of Queen Anna Fern Regier and her two attendants, Rachel Epp and Orletta Warkentin. Chauffeured to the game by student council prexy, Paul Becker, the queen was escorted through a double line of Doxies to her throne by Captain Marlin Krehbiel. There, after Captain Krehbiel had placed the royal crown of flowers on her head, she reigned for the remainder of the afternoon. The loss of the game and old Sol's refusal to appear failed to put a damper on the high spirits of the crowd.

Going back to the campus, we found the next gathering at Memorial Hall, the scene of the homecoming banquet. Professor Lester Hostetler was an able toastmaster as he introduced the various speakers that appeared on the program. A word from Paul Becker, the queen, and Captain Krehbiel preceded the main address by P. F. Quiring of Goessel. Musical selections were presented by a string quartet and several duo-piano numbers by Marvin Dyck and Orlando Schmidt.

"DUTCH" GRUNDMAN

MARLIN KREHBIEL

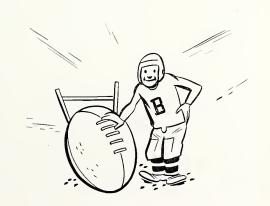

Seven lettermen and a host of encouraging prospects responded to Coach Unruh's call for the initial gridiron practice on September 4. Immediately he began working hard with the boys for the opening game against Alva State. On a rain-soaked field neither team could get going and fought to a 0-0 deadlock. The Ottawa Braves came to town the following week-end and showed power and speed as they won 32-0.

The following Friday the Ottomen were hosts to Kansas Wesleyan. Surprising everyone they held the Johnsonmen to 6 points, but lacked scoring and lost 6-0. Journeying to Hays, the Bethel gridsters rose to unexpected power and upset the dope bucket by emerging victorious over the Tigers 20-6. Grundman swept around left-end for 35 yards for the first touchdown; a pass from Balzer to Kaufman set up the next one, and Harvey Goering hit pay dirt from the 25 yard line for the last one. The Graymaroons were guests of their old rivals, the McPherson Bulldogs, in their next tilt. The Bulldogs scored first on a blocked punt, but the last half the G-Men drove deep into enemy territory several times only to fall short by a few inches each time, and lost 7-0.

Invading the Wildcat lair, the Ottomen found the strength of the league leaders too much to cope with and lost 39-6. The pain of defeat was eased, however, when the fighting Bethel eleven pushed a touchdown across the previously uncrossed Baker goal line. Bethel backs ran wild in the next game with Sterling College. Passing and running plays worked with equal precision as the Graymaroons scored almost at will for a 31-0 triumph. Homecoming was rather a sad one in view of the game's final, but it was the best game local fans saw all year. The "Terrible Swedes" from Bethany were the ungrateful guests who pushed across two touchdowns in the last half to break a 7-7 deadlock and win 20-7.

In the season's final for both teams, an under-rated C. of E. eleven ran and passed their way to a stunning 27-12 victory over the Ottomen.

Winning nine games and losing nine, the 1942-43 edition of the Graymaroon quintet broke just even. It was an on-off season; only once did they win two consecutive victories. On the statistical side, however, the season was much better. Scoring a total of 723 points, the Ottomen averaged 40.1 points per game while the opponents slightly out-scored them averaging 41.4 per game. In view of past seasons these offensive and defensive records are higher and lower than a Bethel team has seen in years.

Mid-season found the team at its best in their games against Bethany and Baker, with a 1 point triumph over the Swedes and a 1 point defeat by the Wildcats. In the first tilt the outcome was uncertain until the final whistle. Sporting a 4 point lead, the Ottomen stalled in the waning moments and halted a desperate Swede rally. In the next tussle the league-leading Baker quintet was encountered. Taking the lead and holding a slight edge throughout, the Graymaroons were denied victory in the last two minutes when the Wildcats forged ahead and then "froze" the ball the remainder of the game to win.

The team this year as a whole deserves much commendation. As far as individual stars is concerned, no one in particular was outstanding on both offense and defense. With the exception of Balzer, only a few points separated the total score of each individual and each one of the starting five took scoring honors in at least one game. This starting five included Balzer, L. Goering, Klippenstein, Bartel and H. Goering. They were constantly pushed for their positions, though, by big Kenny Wiens and freshman Erwin Wiens who played their share of ball also.

The Squad

Track

At the time of this writing track is being planned, although it is somewhat indefinite as yet. Last year the track squad had one of its best seasons, finishing fourth in the Conference meet. Outstanding men for Bethel were Ransom Stucky who won the low hurdles, took second in the highs and fourth in the century dash; Ralph Boese, second in the high jump and fourth in the half mile; and Roy Bartel, third in the pole yault and high jump.

Boese, second in the high jump and fourth in the half mile; and Roy Bartel, third in the pole vault and high jump.

Of these men only Boese is back this year. The squad will be bolstered though, by two more returning lettermen and some new prospects. Paul Barkman, dash man and broad jumper, and Verney Unruh, weight man and quarter miler are the lettermen. The prospects who have begun workouts are Orville Voth, mile; Oswald Goering, weights; Wilfred Friesen, two mile; Ray Funk, dashes, and "Dutch" Grundman, an outstanding high school hurdler. With the addition of the physical fitness program it is hoped that some new material will be uncovered to build the squad into one of the best.

Plans for tennis, like track, are still uncertain. How many matches the team will participate in is indefinite, but the prospects are encouraging. There are only two returning lettermen, Charlie Voth and Paul Albrecht, but these two went far last year in the matches they played. Earning the right to go to the Conference by defeating Bethany's second team in the play-offs, they showed up well there also. In their first match they defeated Baker and advanced to the finals. In the finals, though, they lost to a superior Bethany and took second. Since Bethany swept the singles, the Bethel squad rated second in the Conference. This year they are determined to raise that standing.

With these two and possibly "Jeep" Jantz, a squad member from last year who showed up well, it is hoped that Bethel will go as far and possibly farther than they have in previous years.

Intra-Mural Sports

The intra-mural sports program at Bethel plays a big part in the lives of those students who do not find time and who do not have the capacity to participate in varsity sports. The program is under the direction and supervision of the Letter Club and Coach Unruh. It includes touch-football, basketball, tennis, softball, and sometimes ping-pong and volley ball.

Touch-football opened the intra-mural activities in the fall. The league was composed of four teams with a double round-robin being played. Winning every game but being held to a scoreless tie in the final one, the White House I & III team emerged on top in the standings to retain the trophy which they won last year.

High-lighting the program was the basketball league and tournament. In the league the White House again took honors when the Third Floor team went through undefeated. It was a different story for them in the tournament, though, for the "dark horse" Goessel I & II team finally hit their stride and won every game to take possession of the basketball cup which was held by the Town team

Here are the eight students, six seniors and two juniors, who were chosen by the faculty and student body to represent Bethel College in the 1942-1943 WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES. The qualities which determined the selection of these students were character, scholarship, leadership in extra curricular activities, and potentialities of future usefulness to society.

Labor

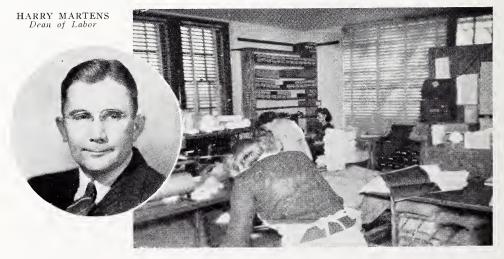

IN THE PRINT SHOP

Bethel College stresses the religious, cultural, and educational life of the student. It also stresses another phase of the student's life that is omitted in many educational centers—that is, the development in the individual an appreciation for work and its various implications. This emphasis is a comparatively new one here, and so if an exstudent or alumnus of several years back were to pay the Bethel campus a visit, he would witness a profound change. He would find a campus fairly seething with activity. Not with academic activity alone but students at work in every shop, office, or other place where labor is needed. This work program was instituted for the purpose of aiding those few students who otherwise would have been unable to attend college. However, it was seen that these students were enjoying an opportunity that others were missing. As a result a larger program was arranged whereby a greater number of students would be able to work.

The new program had provisions for a number of work areas under which all of the different types of work would fall. The areas are maintenance, farm, dining hall, print shop, secretarial bureau, administrative offices, and assistantships. Overseeing the work done in each of these divisions is a supervisor. The many types of jobs that fall into these divisions are, waitresses, workers in the inn, linotype operators, milkers, janitors, secretaries, dishwashers, plumbers, and what have you.

At the beginning of this school year a new work motto was adopted, EVERYBODY WORKS AT BETHEL. With it a new labor plan was also devised. This plan provided for every student who attended Bethel College to work at least two hours a week. This work was to cover an increase in the rate of tuition. Because this was a new tentative plan, certain changes came about and it is still in the process of evolution.

Directing the entire work program was Harry Martens, dean of labor. He was aided in his work by an advisory council made up of work supervisors and other members of the administration. However, in the middle of the second quarter Mr. Martens left Bethel to take another position. As a result a reorganization of the labor administration was called.

Students applying for a job are not given a position at random. The applicant is carefully investigated as to his likes and dislikes. As a result an attempt is made to put the student in a place where he will make the most happy adjustment and where his job will take on new meaning and not merely be a means to an end.

Newton Y.M.C.A.

More Than A Building . . .

The Young Men's Christian Association today is your partner in the task of helping students prepare themselves for the responsibilities of Christian living.

NEED BOOKS TO READ?

Check out books from the WDC LOAN LIBRARY. Books loaned free to churches, CE's, C. P. S. camps or individuals. New books on religion, personal devotions, biographies, Christian stories for children and adults. . . . Write for a book list.

NEED A VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL TEACHER?

Churches helped to find Bible School teachers. Teachers helped to find positions.
